DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to the communication dated 6/14/2006.

Claims 1-36 are pending.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 27 is objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "a public key generation unit operable to generate the public key of RSA encryption using an output prime N" should be -- a public key generation unit operable to generate the public key of RSA encryption using the output prime N--
Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 1-26, 33-34 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim 1 encompasses the abstract idea of calculating a prime candidate N. Claim 1 neither produces a physical transformation nor establishes a practical application. What is the practical application of the calculated prime candidate N once its primality is determined. Claim 2-26 and 33-36 are rejected by the same rationale applied against claim 1. In particular, claims 34 and 36 recites a prime-verification computer program, this claim fails to fall within one of the four statutory categories of invention (i.e. process, machine, manufacture and a composition of matter).

5. Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as not falling within one of the four statutory categories of invention. While the claims recite a series of steps or acts to be performed, a statutory "process" under 35 U.S.C. 101 must (1) be tied to a particular machine, or (2) transform underlying subject matter (such as an article or material) to a different state or thing. See page 10 of In Re Bilski 88 USPQ2d 1385. The instant claims are neither positively tied to a particular machine that accomplishes the claimed method steps nor transform underlying subject matter, and therefore do not qualify as a statutory process.
6. Claims 30 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101. These claims recite a prime-calculation computer program and fail to fall within one of the four statutory categories of invention (i.e. process, machine, manufacture and a composition of matter).
